package mastery;

One huge mistake which i had noticed that i had forgotten to include was my package especially since i erased all of my code and started from the beginning i would start my code with import java.util.scanner and completely forget about the package which would tell the system where my code truly belonged. I had been stuck on this for a long time and even asked ai about it but it could not detect it and rather instead said that the could was all fine however when i compared my code to the skillbuilders i was actually able to realize my mistake because it had been so long since i had last done coding it had completely erased from my memory.
